MAJOR GENERAL ANDREW JACKSON.

Some notice of the life and character of gen. Jackson will be desirable at this time to the readers of your columns.—The distinguished post he at present occupies, the honorable manner in which he has bro't the Creek war to a termination, the unexampled enthusiasm which he has instilled into his army in defence of the nation, and confidence which he has every where obtained, thro' this vast country, has excited much curiosity, on the part of the public, to become more intimately acquainted with him. The writer of the Crisis will gratify as far as in his power, this anxiety concerning a man whose life will constitute, and has constituted already an important epoch in the history of our country. Gen. Jackson was, as I am told, born in N. Carolina, where he received a liberal education, and at an early age commenced the practice of law. He was esteemed eminent in his profession; his speeches at the bar were always considered nervous and admired for perspicuity of style; he was pointed out to me, in Knoxville, as an elegant scholar. In early life was poor; his industry soon made him rich; generous and brave in his disposition, he was esteemed by all who knew him, and his influence soon became extensive; he was elected a member of the Tennessee Convention and had a large share in the formation of the constitution of the state. On the admission of Tennesse into the union as a sister state, he was elected to the house of representatives, from which he was subsequently transferred to the senate of the U. S. This last station he occupied until he was appointed a judge of the supreme court of law and equity of Tennessee, which last named office he held for several years. On giving up this appointment, which he held with honor to himself and advantage to his country, he turned his attention to the military art and soon rose to the rank of maj. gen. of militia. In the capacity of an officer at the head of an army, comment is unnecessary; he has appeared and yet appears covered with glory; the laurels with which he has decked his country's standard will bloom for ages. His person remains to be noticed: he is tall, thin and spare, but muscular and hardy, with an eye quick and penetrating. I have frequently seen gen. Jackson, and such was the impression his appearance made on my mind, that I have said to myself, he is a man of iron. Adversity can make no impression on a bosom braced by such decision and firmness as is visible in his face and manners—quite the contrary—it is true he sports not with the feelings of others, and no one is permitted to wound his with impunity; but then he is gay, communicative and liberal, and the more you get acquainted with him, the more you admire and indeed love him. To be a patriot, a soldier, and a gentleman, is sufficient to secure the inviolable friendship of this highly distinguished citizen.

To the poor he is liberal, to the unfortunate charitable, to the humblest private he is mild and tender, to the base and disaffected to his country stern and unbending, and yet just. He is now about fifty-five, but he has a juvenility of appearance that would make him ten years younger. The general is married but has no children. If in the field and at the head of armies in battle, we admire the dauntless soldier; we love the man who at home, and in retirement, is hospitable and friendly, and in this particular, the general is pre-eminently conspicuous.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.

ADDRESS

Directed by Major General JACKSON, to be read at the head of each of the corps composing the line below N. Orleans, Jan. 21, 1815.

Citizens & Fellow Soldiers!

The enemy has retreated, and your general has now leisure to proclaim to the world what he has noticed with admiration and pride—your undaunted courage, patriotism, and patience under hardships and fatigues. Natives of different states acting together for the first time in this camp. Differing in habits and in language, instead of viewing in these circumstances the germ of distrust and division, you have made them the source of an honorable emulation, and from the seeds of discord itself have reaped the fruits of an honorable union—This day completes the 4th week since 1500 of you attacked double your number of men who had boasted of their discipline, and their services under a celebrated leader in a long and eventful war; attacked them in their camp the moment they had profaned the soil of freedom with their hostile tread, and inflicted a blow which was a prelude to the final result of their attempt to conquer, or their poor contrivances to divide us. A few hours was sufficient to unite the gallant band, though at the moment they received the welcome order to march they were separated many leagues in different directions from the city. The gay rapidity of the march, the cheerful countenances of the officers and men, would have induced a belief that some festive entertainment, not the strife of battles was the object to which they hastened with so much eagerness and hilarity. In the conflict that ensued the same spirit was supported, and my communications to the executive of the U. S. have testified the sense I entertained of the merits of the corps and officers that were engaged. Resting on the field of battle, they retired in perfect order on the next morning to these lines, destined to become the scene of future victories, which they were to share with the rest of you, my brave companions in arms. Scarcely were your lines a protection against musket shot, when on the 28th a disposition was made to attack them with all the pomp and parade of military tactics, as improved by those veterans of the Spanish war.

Their batteries of heavy cannon kept up an incessant fire; their rockets illuminated the air, and under their cover two strong columns threatened our flanks. The foe insolently thought that this spectacle was too imposing to be resisted, and in the intoxication of his pride he already saw our lines abandoned without a contest; how were those menacing appearances met?

By shouts of defiance, a manly countenance not to be shaken by the roar of his cannon, by the glare of his fire-work rockets; by an artillery served with superior skill and with deadly effect. Never, my brave friends, can your general forget the testimonials of attachment to our glorious cause, of indignant hatred to our foe, of affectionate confidence in your chief, that resounded from every rank as he passed along your line. This animating and unexpected scene damped the courage of the enemy; he dropped his scaling ladders and fascines and the threatened attack dwindled into a demonstration, which served only to shew the emptiness of his parade, and to inspire you with a just confidence in yourselves.

The new year was ushered in with the most tremendous fire his whole artillery could produce; a few hours only however were necessary for the brave and skilful men who directed our own to dismount his cannon, destroy his batteries, and effectively silence his fire. Hitherto my brave friends in the contest on your lines, your courage had been passive only; you stood with calmness a fire that would have tried the firmness of a veteran; and you anticipated a nearer contest with an eagerness which was soon gratified.

On the 8th January the final effort was made. At the dawn of day the batteries opened, and the columns advanced;—knowing that the volunteers from Tennessee and the militia from Kentucky, were stationed on your left, it was there they directed their chief attack.

Reasoning always from false principles they expected little opposition from men who were ignorant of the rules of dress, and who had never been caned into discipline; fatal mistake, a fire incessantly kept up, directed with calmness and unerring aim strewed the field with the bravest officers and men of the column which slowly advanced according to the most approved rules of European tactics, and was cut down by the untutored courage of American militia. Unable to sustain this galling and unceasing fire, some hundreds nearest the entrenchment called for quarter which was granted; the rest retreating, were rallied at some distance, but only to make them a surer mark for the grape and cannister shot of our artillery, which without exaggeration, mowed down ranks at every discharge; and at length they precipitately retreated from the field

Our right had only a short contest to sustain with a few rash men who fatally for themselves, forced their entrance into the unfinished redoubt on the river—They were quickly dispossessed and this glorious day terminated with the loss to the enemy of their commander in chief and one maj. gen. killed, another maj. gen. wounded, the most experienced and bravest of their officers, and more than 3000 men killed, wounded and missing; while our ranks my friends, were thinned only by the loss of 6 of our brave companions killed, and 7 disabled by wounds. Wonderful interposition of heaven! unexampled event in the history of war.

Let us be grateful to the God of battles who has directed the arrows of indignation against our invaders, while he covered with his protecting shield the brave defenders of their country.

After this unsuccessful and disastrous attempt, their spirits were broken, their force was destroyed, and their whole attention was employed in providing the means of escape. This they have effected; leaving their heavy artillery in our power, and many of their wounded to our clemency. The consequences of this short, but decisive campaign are incalculably important. The pride of our arrogant enemy humbled, his forces broken, his leaders killed, his insolent hopes of our disunion frustrated, his expectation of rioting in our spoils and wasting our country changed into ignominous defeat, shameful flight, and an acknowledgement of the humanity and kindness of those whom he had doomed to all the horrors and humiliation of a conquered state.

On the other side, unanimity established, disaffection crushed, confidence restored, your country saved from conquest, your property from pillage, yourselves and daughters from insult and violence, the union preserved from dismemberment, and perhaps a period put by this decisive stroke to a bloody war. These my brave friends are the consequences of the efforts you have made and the success with which they have been crowned by heaven.

These important results have been effected by the united courage and perseverance of the army; but which the different corps as well as the individuals that compose it have vied with each other in their exertions to produce. The share they respectively had will be pointed out in the general order accompanying this address. But the gratitude and admiration of their country offer a fairer reward than that which any praises of the General can bestow, and the best is that of which they can never be deprived, the consciousness of having done their duty and of meriting the applause they will receive.

PETERSBURGH, Va. Feb. 14.

Yesterday evening about half past 4 o'clock, we were astounded by a tremendous noise, resembling the roll of distant thunder. The volume of smoke issuing from the stone building near to M'Neal's bridge, which had been for some time past used as a depot of military stores, soon discovered that to be the scene of danger. The explosion was caused, we understand, by some person in the house accidentally firing a musket near a keg of fixed ammunition, which, communicating with a parcel of loose powder, the whole exploded together, making a tremendous report, and bursting the eastern wall of the upper story of the house. No eulogium can do justice to the daring intrepidity of the citizens on this occasion; they rushed into the smoking ruins, and seizing barrels of powder, threw them into the river, while they were yet blazing with fire! Their unexampled exertions arrested the progress of the flames, ere it communicated to the adjacent buildings. Nearly all the public property was saved, and it gives us pleasure to add, not a life was lost.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.

Some of the effects of the news of Peace.

In yesterday's paper we gave a rapid sketch of the effects of the war; to-day we give one of the effects of the prospect of peace even before the ratification.—Our markets of every kind experienced a sudden and to many a shocking change. Sugar, for instance, fell from $ 26 per cwt. to $ 12 50. Tea, which sold at $ 2 25 on Saturday, yesterday was purchaseable at $ 1. Specie which had been got up to the enormous rate of 22 per cent. premium, dropt down to 2. The article in particular of Tin fell from the height of $ 80 the box to 25. Six per cent. stock rose from 76 to 86, 10 per cent. Treasury notes rose to 92, 13 per cent. The difference between the two kind of stock is owing to the interest being the same on both, while the price of the former is much less to the holder; that is, the holder of the former receives 6 per cent on $ 100 which costs him but 86, while the holder of the latter receives the same interest, but the principal 96.

WASHINGTON CITY, February 20.

Circular to the Marshals of the United States.

Office of Commissary General of Prisoners, Washington, Feb. 18, 1815.

Sir—In consequence of the conclusion of a PEACE between the U. States and G. Britain, which has been this day proclaimed by the President, British subjects, resident in this country cease to be Alien enemies.

You will therefore consider all restrictions heretofore imposed on persons of that description, (not prisoners of war) on account of the character attached to them by the existence of hostilities, as at an end; and you are requested to take immediate measures to discharge all such persons, within your District, from any and every restraint imposed on that account. I have the honor to be, &c. J. MASON,

Marshal of the district of

Office of Commissary General of Prisoners, Feb. 20, 1815.

A mutual restoration of prisoners of war, having been provided for by the Treaty of Peace recently concluded with G. Britain, all officers belonging to the service of the U. S. whether of the army, navy, or militia; and all other persons, citizens or residents of the same, who may have been captured during the late war, and paroled by the enemy, and who are now within the U. S. are hereby declared discharged from said parole, and as free to do military duty, in any capacity, or to enter into any other service or employment, as if they had never been captured. J. MASON.

Extract of a letter from Col. Haynes to Gov. Blount, dated New-Orleans, January 27, 1815.

"General Jackson is the idol of the French people. They have paid him every homage in their power. On the 24th inst. he made his triumphal entry into the city, and marched under an arch encircled with laurels, and was crowned by a wreath of fame put on him by one of the virgins of the city, and others strewed flowers before him as he went to the church, where they performed a solemn Te Deum, for, and in honor of the glorious victory over the British army on the 8th of January."

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1815.

On Tuesday night last our town was brilliantly illuminated, in commemmoration of Gen. Jackson's victory at New Orleans, and the return of Peace. Harmony and good order reigned throughout the evening, and although the streets were crowded with persons rejoicing in the prospect of future happiness, not a single accident occurred to mar the general hilarity.

Yesterday morning a very alarming Fire broke out in the workshop of Mr. John Ligget, cabinet-maker, near Wood street, between Front and Second streets. It had progressed so far before it was discovered that it was impossible to save the building; but the great exertions of the citizens, and the morning being remarkably calm, saved the adjoining buildings, although of frame, from destruction. Mr. Ligget's loss is very considerable.

For the Pittsburgh Gazette.

The history of the Hero, to whose memory the following verses are inscribed, is short and simple. At the breaking out of the present or rather late war, he obtained a Lieutenant's commission in the Army of the United States, and at the carnage of Bridgewater, after signalizing himself in the commencement, while he was leading his men into the hottest of the fire, he was instantaneously shot to the heart, and in a moment obtained that immortality it might have cost him years to acquire. To those who know him this account will suffice for the publication of these lines, and they are not written for those who do not.

Lines on the Death of Lieut. D. B. of Delaware.

Is there a spot to glory's eye,
So precious as the Hero's grave;
Where valor consecrated, lie,
The last sad relics of the brave?

Though far from family and friends
Life's parting, suffering moments close,
No sister on his couch attends,
No mother soothes him to repose.

Consoling is the self applause,
The warrior's dying breast that warms,
He falls—it is his country's cause,
He dies—it is in honor's arms.

And though no marble mark the place
Where virtue, genius, valor rest;
And friendship if the spot he trace,
Must search the forests of the west.

Yet Freedom's Eagle in her flight
Shall sometimes rest upon the grave,
Of him she summoned to the fight,
Yet could not spread her wings to save.

C.

An order from the Adjutant and Inspector General's Office, Washington City, dated February 21st, 1815, states, "That no non-commissioned officer, musician or private enlisted to serve during the war, will be allowed to leave his regiment, corps or detachment until he shall be mustered inspected and paid. Arrangements have been made for paying and honorably discharging all non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates who inlisted to serve for the war, and have faithfully performed their duty accordingly. All musters for payment of troops whose term has expired, will be made up to the time of inspection for discharge."

In the House of Representatives of the United States, February 22, Mr. Troup, from the committee on military affairs, reported a bill fixing the Military Peace establishment of the United States.

[This bill provides that the military peace establishment shall consist of such proportions of artillery, infantry and riflemen, not exceeding in the whole ten thousand men, as the President shall think proper; the corps of engineers shall be retained. The general officers to consist of two Major Generals and four Brigadier Generals. The President to cause selections to be made of officers from the existing force, and to cause the supernumerary officers to be discharged as soon as circumstances shall permit. Three months pay to be given to each officer, &c. so honorably discharged, and, in addition, to each officer, a donation of land, 2500 acres to a Major General, &c. 640 to a captain, 480 to a subaltern. To each private also, an additional donation of 160 acres of land, provided the whole quantity of land such private receives shall not exceed 320 acres. The bill also proposes to regulate the future organization of the army.]

The bill was twice read and referred to a committe of the whole.

RELATIONS WITH ALGIERS.

The following report, transmitted to the House of Representatives, by the President of the U. S. on the 24th inst. was read:

"The acting secretary of state, to whom was referred the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 15th instant, requesting the president of the U. States to cause to be laid before that House such information as he shall deem necessary to be communicated, touch[ing] the state of relations existing betw[een] the U. S. and the Barbary powers, [has] the honor to state, that, according to [the] latest accounts from Morocco, Tu[nis] and Tripoli, our relations with th[ese] powers remained upon their former fo[o]ting, nor is there any particular reas[on] to believe that any change has since t[a]ken place.

"It will appear by the documents a[c]companying the message of the Pr[esi]dent to congress on the 17th Nov. 18[15] that the Dey of Algiers, had, violen[tly] and without just cause, obliged the Co[n]sul of the U. S. and all Americans [to] in Algiers, to leave that place, in a m[a]nner highly offensive to their country a[nd] injurious to themselves, and in violati[on] of the Treaty then subsisting betwe[en] the two nations. It appears, moreove[r] that he exacted from the Consul, und[er] pain of immediate imprisonment, a lar[ge] sum of money, to which he had no cla[im] but what originated in his own injusti[ce].

"These acts of violence and outra[ge] have been followed by the capture of [at] least one American vessel, and by t[he] seizure of an American citizen on boa[rd] a neutral vessel. The unfortunate p[er]sons thus captured, are yet held in cap[ti]vity, with the exception of two of the[m] who have been ransomed. Every effo[rt] to obtain the release of the others h[as] proved abortive; and there is some r[ea]son to believe that they are held by t[he] Dey as a means by which he calcula[tes] to extort from the U. S. a degradi[ng] Treaty.

JAS. MONROE.

Department of State,
Feb 20, 1815.

By an arrival at New-York of an American sloop from Havanna, accounts were received of the daily arrival of [Br]itish ships of war from the Mississippi [to] Havanna and sailing from that place, [full] of wounded troops that were at the ba[t]tles at N. Orleans. The Plantagenet, [of] sailed from Havanna for England on the morning of the 11th inst. having on boar[d] the bodies of Generals Pakenham, and Gibbs and several wounded officers, a[mo]ngst whom was Col. Thornton, who was also wounded at the attack on Wash[in]gton, and whose life was despaired of. It was understood at Havanna that Gen. Keane, was recovering from his wound. The British officers who had arrived at Havanna from N. Orleans, said but little on the subject of the invasion of Louisiana, but, acknowledged they were defeated, and that they never witnessed such fighting as was exhibited by our troops at N. Orleans.

WILLIAM GRAHAM, Innkeeper.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 20, 1815.

COVINGTON,

A New Town,

IS laid out at the mouth of Licking River, on the Farm lately owned by Mr. Thomas Kennedy. This beautiful and commanding situation at the confluence of the Ohio and Licking Rivers, in Campbell county, Kentucky, opposite the flourishing town of Cincinnati, presents a prospect equal, if not superior, to any on the Ohio River. The main road from Lexington, Kentucky, to Cincinnati, Dayton and the northern and western parts of the state of Ohio passes through it. The situation is healthy and possesses many advantages superior to any in the Western Country: Its convenience to a good Market, a Steam Mill and a variety of Factories, the facility with which all kinds of building materials can be procured, with many other concomitant advantages, hold forth great inducements for the enterprising Merchant, Mechanic, Manufacturer, and Man of business of every description.

This TOWN is laid out upon the most eligible plan for the occupant, as every Lot has the advantage of a street or alley leading to the Centre or Public Square for places of Worship, Academies, &c. and a Market Space of 100 feet wide by 500 feet long. A suitable number of Out Lots will be laid out convenient to the Town. The Lots will be offered at Public Sale on the twentieth of March next, at the place aforesaid, upon the following terms—One-fourth in hand, or a negociable note with an approved endorser at 60 days—one-fourth in six months—one-fourth in twelve months, and one-fourth in eighteen months, in bonds with approved security, to bear interest from the date if not punctually paid—or one-third in hand—one-third in 12 months, and one-third in 24 months, with interest, if not punctually paid. A discount of 8 per cent. will be made for payment of the whole sum at the time of sale.

This Town has been established by an act of the Legislature of Kentucky, and titles will be made by the Trustees upon the purchaser presenting a receipt for the purchase money, or the order of the proprietors. A plan may be seen at JOHN S. GANO's, Cincinnati; R. M. GANO's, Georgetown; THOMAS D. CARNEAL, at Capt. Postlethwait's, Lexington; or BAKEWELL, PAGE & BAKEWELL, Pittsburgh.

GENUINE FAMILY MEDICIES.

BOSLER & Co.

Front Street, between Market & Wood Streets, PITTSBURGH,

HAVE just received from Lee's Patent and Family Medicine Store, New York, a fresh supply of the following

GENUINE MEDICINES.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers is recommended

HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS.

The operation of these Pills is very mild, so as to be used by persons in all situations, and of every age.

They are well adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions, to restore the appetite, to produce a free perspiration, and thus prevent Colds, which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a Cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness, sickness at the stomach, and severe head-ache, and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S

WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES,

Which have, within years past, cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from Worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This Medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar title, so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age & constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent, and so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady, or an infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul, and and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The Lozenges are efficacious in taking off all gross humors and eruptions, feverish complaints, and the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is also the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a vast number when in advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance and a mild taste.

HAMILTON'S ESSENCE & EXTRACT OF MURTARD,

A safe & effectual remedy for rheumatisms, gout, palsey, sprains and bruises, white swellings, old strains and relaxations, numbers and weakness of the neck, pains of the side, head ache, swelled faces, frozen limbs and every similar complaint. It prevents chilblains or chopped hands, and the ill effects of getting the feet wet.

THE DAMASK LIP SALVE.

THE RESTORATIVE POWDER FOR THE TEETH AND GUMS.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and the foulness, which if suffered to accumulate never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

GRAND RESTORATIVE

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints resulting from dissipated pleasures, juvenile indiscretions, residence in climates unfavorable to the constitution the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication and destructive intemperance, the unskilful or excessive use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at a certain period of life, bad lyings in, &c.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR,

Celebrated for the cure of colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, and approaching consumptions, and a certain remedy for the whooping cough.

HAHN'S GENUINE EYE WATER.

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

TOOTH-ACHE DROPS.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

LEE'S OINTMENT FOR THE ITCH.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

LEE'S INFALLIBLE

AGUE AND FEVER DROPS.

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

HAHN'S

TRUE AND GENUINE GERMAN

CORN PLAISTER.

Doctor CHISHOLMS,

Anti-Bilious Pills,

OF A QUALITY

Superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a

GENERAL MEDICINE,

IN THIS COUNTRY,

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates

This extraordinary medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuant of bile, is without example; never producing debility, or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child, or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains, wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flax-seed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and diseases of the liver, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills, taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case, the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by

J. P. & J. W. Skelton,

At their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.
